

NEWS LETTER

September 2026 Edition

From The Chairman's Desk:

At Microfilter, we believe that every successful water-treatment system begins with reliable products and dependable components.

This September, we are putting our Products & Spare Parts in the spotlight, because behind every system we install and every solution we deliver, there is a range of components working quietly, consistently and reliably to make it all possible.

The water treatment industry often focuses on the big systems, the plants, the membranes, the treatment technologies. But the truth is, the performance of any system is determined by the quality of its smallest components.

At Microfilter, we take spare parts as seriously as we take our flagship systems. Because we understand that the real measure of a water treatment solution is not how it performs on day one, it is how it performs on day one thousand.

Wastewater Storage Tank: Turning Wastewater into a Resource

Our Wastewater Storage Tank is designed to support the safe collection and storage of treated or reusable wastewater, enabling better water management and reducing unnecessary wastage.

Ideal for applications where treated wastewater can be reused for gardening, irrigation, construction, floor washing and other suitable non-potable purposes, the tank supports a practical approach to water conservation.

At Microfilter, we believe every drop has value. By enabling the storage and reuse of wastewater, this solution contributes to more responsible and sustainable water management.

Store. Reuse. Conserve.

Make Every Drop Count.

Message from the Whole-Time Director

Dear Team,

September is about letting the incredible wave of emotion and pride settle into something steady, a renewed sense of purpose that drives us forward with even greater clarity and determination.

We are proud to share that Microfilter Polymers has been recognized as a Certified Gold Seller on Flipkart, marking another significant milestone in our journey of digital growth and customer excellence.

This prestigious recognition reflects our consistent commitment to quality products, reliable service, customer satisfaction and responsible marketplace performance. Through our presence on Flipkart, we continue to make our range of water purification products and spare parts more accessible to customers across India.

As we continue to expand across digital platforms, Microfilter Polymers remains committed to delivering quality, reliability and value one customer at a time.

Another milestone achieved. Another step forward in our digital journey.

Warm regards,
Mrs. Ritu Mangal
Whole-Time Director
Microfilter Polymers Ltd.

Quote Of The Month

"A great water treatment system is not built in a day, it is maintained, part by part, day by day, with the commitment to never compromise on quality."

Products That Power Better Water Solutions

At Microfilter Polymers Limited, our journey has always been driven by one simple objective to make dependable water-treatment solutions accessible to homes, businesses and industries.

Our products and spare parts form the foundation of this journey. From filtration components used in domestic water purifiers to specialised solutions for industrial water and wastewater treatment, we continue to focus on quality, reliability, performance and practical innovation.

With a growing product portfolio and a strong focus on customer requirements, Microfilter is building a complete ecosystem of water-treatment products that supports installation, maintenance, replacement and long-term system performance.

Our Product Approach

Quality First

Every component plays an important role in the overall performance of a water-treatment system.

Reliable Performance

Our products are developed to provide dependable performance across different applications.

Complete Solutions

From individual filter cartridges and housings to industrial treatment systems, we aim to serve diverse water-treatment requirements.

Innovation with Purpose

We continuously explore solutions that improve water conservation, treatment efficiency and usability.

Microfilter Polymers Limited India's Leading Water Purification Spare Parts Manufacturer

With years of expertise in water treatment, Microfilter Polymers Limited offers a comprehensive range of high-quality RO and water purification spare parts from filter cartridges and housings to advanced filtration components.

Driven by quality, innovation and reliability, Microfilter continues to strengthen its presence across India and support the water purification industry with dependable solutions.

Quality in every component. Reliability in every drop.

Water Aeration System: Enhancing Water Quality, Naturally

At Microfilter Polymers Limited, our Water Aeration Systems are designed with the realities of industrial and commercial operations in mind. Reliable performance, low maintenance and long-term efficiency are not optional extras, they are built into every system we design.

Whether it is supporting a wastewater treatment process, improving the quality of process water or enhancing the effectiveness of an existing treatment setup our aeration solutions are built to deliver consistent, dependable results.

A well-designed aeration system addresses these issues at the source before they become bigger problems. By consistently maintaining the right oxygen levels, it creates the conditions for better biological treatment, reduces the load on chemical processes and helps deliver water that is genuinely cleaner and more stable in quality.
